Learning From the Past: The Future of Opioid Treatment in Oklahoma

The opioid epidemic continues to ravage the state of Oklahoma and the country. The goal of this year's conference is to determine a path for the future of opioid treatment in the state of Oklahoma. As we have struggled with the opioid crisis over the last several years and strived to innovate processes to care for this new era of patients, we now want to stop and look back on what we've learned and establish a clear path going forward. To do this we need your help. We cannot accomplish these goals without your willingness to share your expertise and experiences.
